

Indices of Deprivation 2004 - What are Super Output-Areas?

Super Output Areas were developed from Output Areas, which replaced Enumeration Districts for the 2001 Census. Enumeration Districts were used until 1991, and were designed for enumerating the census – that is, delivering and collecting census forms. Output Areas were designed for consistent reporting of census statistics, and are small areas of around 50 addresses. Super output areas are collections of output areas – they are more detailed than wards.

What Super Output-Area is my address in?

The ward maps (listed below) show the areas covered by each super output area.
